Editorial and Otherwise.

Old age tells on one and so does youth.

Umbrellas have a widespread popularity.

To journey through life you must "tip" by the way.

The actions of a small man sometimes makes him great.

Poverty may be a virtue, but it doesn't keep the pot boiling.

Nothing better than the velvet bean as a food for cattle.

Close quarters—twenty-five cent pieces held by a miser.

The full man and the empty pocket-book usually go together.

The man who jumps at a conclusion is apt to land in confusion.

Some of our race are leaders of men; others are followers of women.

Many act as if they believed the horn of plenty was a glass of whiskey.

For a man to be efficient, like a cable car, he mustn't lose the grip.

The man who has never committed a folly never appreciated wisdom.

Perhaps the loud cravat is the tie that binds the swells.

The man who keeps in trim won't go on to the ragged edge.

A rousing time is apt to occur just before breakfast.

Even a candle has bad habits; it sputters and takes snuff.

If you would be happy never borrow trouble or lend money.

Talk may be cheap, as a rule, but loving terms are dear.

Bachelor—A pair of scissors with one blade missing.

Life is made up with meetings, greetings and partings.

Hearts may not be true, but they cannot be dead beats.

Bad policy to change front and then change back.

Even a noble cast of countenance can be downcast.

In a school for oculists the pupils study the pupils.

It is intended that every woman should have at least one husband.

A really generous man is good to others before he is good to himself.

Overconfidence and lack of confidence are standing invitations to defeat.

Talking too much and doing too little is the cause of many a failure in life.

Fresh pine saw dust don't make good fertilizer for any kind of crops.

Every town has three classes of society—good, bad and indifferent.

Any woman who is a match for a man, will always fire up when he strikes her.

Men sometimes think they understand women, but men are sometimes fools.

The man who wants the earth need not expect to get it without advertising.

A woman's lips are the rose, and her tongue is the thorn.

Man that has no character is always trying to bring good men down to his level.

Men may come and men may go, but a woman's tongue—well you know the rest.

If girls were more particular in selecting husbands there would be fewer divorces.

If a woman doesn't worry about her husband it is apt to worry him because she doesn't.

Brevity is said to be the soul of wit; yet a lawyer's brief is anything but funny.

In Kentucky a political candidate always bows to the will of the people—provided it is in his favor.

The silent partner in a business firm can always be sure that when necessary his money will talk for him.

Some men are contented with what they have simply because they are too lazy to work for more.

A man can forgive a person who treats on his horse, but never one who hurts his self-esteem.

When a railroad man goes to the dentist to have a tooth extracted, he prefers to have the tooth pulled out by the railroad man.

Short somebody please describe Lady Smith? Is she very handsome? A blonde or a brunette?

The census of Porto Rico shows a population of 3,570,000. Ponce is the largest city, its inhabitants numbering 56,000.

Some unfortunate mortals seem to have been created not to help, but to hinder others.

A little boy writing a letter to Santa Claus asks for a pony, but adds in a postscript, "If it is a male, please try his behine legs."

There are two places in a newspaper where a man is superstitious about having his name appear; the obituary column and the police court record.

It is difficult to convince a girl that
